Total of 1760 Ballots Cast Tuesday Compared With 1543 Four Years Ago

1000 UNDER 1921 ELECTION

Beabout Defeats Stevens For Mayor on Republican Ticket—Three Present Councilmen Lose

A normal primary vote was cast in the Rushville city election Tuesday to nominate the republican and democratic tickets for the fall elections, despite the fact that a check on the ballots cast Tuesday afternoon indicated that the vote was light.

Clata L. Beabout had little difficulty in defeating Albert C. Stevens for the republican nomination for mayor and Mayor Walter R. Thomas as won the democratic nomination over George W. Higgins by a safe majority.

Three members of the present council—Homer W. Cole and Chase P. Mauzy, councilmen-at-large, and Frank Abercrombie, councilman from the first ward, and all republicans, were defeated for renomination.

Only one member of the present council, Norman Crum, democrat, was renominated. He won out over two opponents in the third ward with a plurality of 130. Walter F. Easley, the fifth member of the council, was not a candidate for renomination.

Charles R. Berry was victorious in the four-cornered race for the republican nomination for city clerk, defeating his nearest opponent, Louis C. Hiner, by a plurality of 115. Dale Fisher ran 306 behind the leader and Lenard Pate was a poor fourth, running 50 votes below Fisher.

The closest race was between Harry B. Armstrong and Alva E. Newhouse for the republican nomination for treasurer, the latter winning with a majority of 51.

William E. Harton led the six candidates for councilman-at-large on the republican ticket, having a plurality of 51 over the third high candidate, Mauzy. John S. Davis was the other candidate nominated, his plurality over Mauzy being 28.

William M. Redman won a three-cornered councilmanic battle for the right to go on the republican ballot in the third ward, defeating Russell Price, who was second, and William H. Varley.

Ellsbury Pea had no opposition in the second ward race on the republican ticket and on the democratic ticket, Fred G. Arbuckle lost to Walter E. Clarkson by one vote.

Willard H. Amos overcame two opponents in the republican race in the first ward, winning a plurality of 61.

Fred Brown defeated J. Kennard Allen in the democratic race for clerk by a majority of 146, carrying

RUM SHIPS BESEIGED FROM AIR, LAND AND SEA

Face Starvation or Surrender as Dry Flotilla and Seaplanes Wage Warfare

TO CUT OFF FOOD AND WATER

Clifton, New York, May 6—Besieged from air, land and sea, rum row today faced starvation or surrender, as the dry flotilla and a squadron of seaplanes waged a warfare to cut off food and water supply of the liquor laden ships.

While the prohibition navy was maneuvering into fifty miles of blockade, twelve more government ships were sailing for liquor lane, twenty picket boats began patrolling the Jersey coast and auto patrol sent to coast guard stations all along the Atlantic sea board.

Meanwhile word was received from Boston that twenty-five coast guard craft under sealed orders from Washington had sailed to assist the New York and New Jersey fleets. Coast guard officials said the government planned similar operations against rum runners in the Great Lakes.

DUVALL LOOKS TO BE G. O. P. CHOICE

With All But Four Precincts in His Nomination for Mayor in Indianapolis Was Assured

MYERS DEMOCRATIC CHOICE

Duvall Wins Out Over Powerful Shank Political Machine—Results Elsewhere in State

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., May 6—with all but four of the 225 Indianapolis precincts unofficially reported to the Times this afternoon, it appeared that John L. Duvall was elected republican nominee for mayor by at least 7,000 votes. Walter Myers, the democratic nominee, was nominated by almost three to one plurality over his opponent.

Duvall won out over the powerful political machine of Mayor Lew Shank, and the anti klan element, which threw their support to Leake.

Klan endorsed candidates were nominated on both republican and democratic tickets at Franklin while at Kokomo Silcott Spurgen, favored by the Klan, wrested control of the Klan organization from Mayor James Burr and won the mayoralty nomination by 800 votes.

At Washington and several of the smaller cities where the klan fight was injected in the primaries the recognized klan candidates were given, followed by the election of officers.

FUNDAMENTALS OF FAITH TO BE STUDIED

Presbyterian Church Has Never Hesitated to Rise to Their Defense, Pastor Asserts

TO BEGIN SERIES OF STUDIES

Beginning Thursday night, the Rev. Gibson Wilson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will resume his studies of the belief and teachings of the Presbyterian church.

This will include a study of the "Brief Statement of the Reformed Faith" in sixteen articles. The first study will be concerning the statement of God, of Revelation and of the Eternal purpose.

Other studies will take up the teaching concerning the birth of Jesus, the miracles, the resurrection and the inspiration of the Scriptures.

"In these days of controversy throughout the entire Christian world new interest attaches to these subjects. We believe that people have the right to think for themselves but that they must be guided in their thinking by the teaching of God's word," the pastor says.

The Presbyterian church has never hesitated to rise to the defense when the fundamentals of the Christian faith are attacked and will not stand by in these days of controversy and see them take away our divine Lord and give us only a human Christ."

All persons who are interested in this series of studies are most cordially welcomed to attend, beginning Thursday night at 7:30.

He states that it will take a circular drain 8 feet, 9 inches in diameter to carry a flood flow, or 10 feet 6 inches to carry away an excessive flood flow. He states that a circular sewer would not be desirable because of the depth of the cut in which to lay it and the necessary deepening of the entire stream from state road 39 to Flatrock, and for this reason a flattened section will be necessary, the report shows.

He recommends a section 4 feet by 16 in. in the clear, or a double section, each conduit being 9 feet wide and four feet deep. In order to carry an excessive flow, the size is recommended to be 23 feet wide and 4 feet deep, or if built in two conduits they should be each 13 feet wide and 4 feet deep.

Street culverts are not large enough to carry the water, according to the report. The culvert at the L. E. & W. railroad is not in the shape necessary for any proposed improvement the city may make, the report shows.

Great Things—Fear the Lord, and serve him in truth; for consider how great things he hath done for you. 1 Samuel 12:24.

The 1925 Casualty List

The Casualty List goes on. The World War ended November 11, 1918 for most of us. Since that date America has not seized its morning newspaper to read in haste, and in fear, that list of those "Dead on the Field of Honor." The poppies of six summers have covered the scars of Flanders Field and babies walk and talk and play, who were not born when the last shell burst beyond the Meuse. But the casualty list goes on.

During 1924 more than five thousand men died in the United States from disabilities directly originating in their World War service. Those are the deaths officially recorded and certified by the government as due to war causes. There were others not so of record.

Fifteen every day. And the others not of record."

At each sunset we know that fifteen more have gone, "Dead on the Field of Honor" as surely as those who rest under the little crosses, row on row, in Northern France. Not mercifully "killed in action," but mercilessly scarred and maimed and tortured these long years, going at last to a rest they have earned not once but a thousand times. And the widows and the orphans are here in more numbers today than yesterday, and more tomorrow than yesterday.

In 1922 the deaths "directly traceable to service origin" were 4,556. In 1923 they fell off to 4,304. In the first half of 1924 they rose again, to 2,721 for half a year. Where is the end to be?

Five thousand children of veterans are orphaned and dependent now. By 1932 it is estimated the number will be 38,000. Several hundred of these children are in dire need, are emergency cases for whom provision, if it is to be made, must be made quickly.

It is to aid these two sufferers of the war, the disabled and the orphans, that The American Legion is now engaged in raising an endowment fund of $5,000,000. The fund, to be held in trust forever, will place on a permanent financial basis the rehabilitation work being done by the Legion.

The Legion has said publicly that while it has assumed the obligation of looking after the disabled and the orphans, the responsibility for their welfare lies as much with the public as with the ex-service men. The public now has the opportunity of assuming its share by contributing to the endowment fund.

The cause is worthy and has a great appeal and the Legion should encounter no great obstacles in raising this comparatively small sum of money. The work is such as the Legion can efficiently do, and by doing it the veteran organization seems bound in the direction its founders pointed it seven years ago.

Courtesy is the cheapest commodity in the world, yet it is probably the least used.

It doesn't belong to any corporation and it isn't quoted in Wall Street. It is not regulated by any federal commission—there are no restrictions on it. The price of courtesy is not fixed because there are no "production costs."

Courtesy is as free as the air we breath, and costing nothing, many view it as a worthless asset and do not make it a part of themselves.

For many, many years the commencement day orators have been telling us that courtesy is a factor to be reckoned with if we wish to succeed in life.

Some high school graduates have remembered this bit of timely advice and in their efforts to get ahead in the strenuous game of life, they have made it their constant aim to be courteous to others.

Go through the list of your acquaintances and see how many have made courtesy pay. You will find the number lamentably small because they have been too busy with the small perplexities of life to take time for little courtesies that make the brief stay here pleasant.

Courtesy pays big dividends in what we generally term success. It likewise creates within the individual a certain sense of satisfaction in the thought that he makes friends by treating others courteously.

And it always comes back abundantly in proportion to the way it is extended to others.

WASHINGTON—Chief Justice Taft of the federal supreme bench visited London some time ago to study the English courts, especially their handling of criminal cases. He was much pleased what particularly struck him was that English judges simply won't permit delay or be bothered by technicalities. If a man obviously is guilty of something, the judge concentrates on finding him out and generally succeeds. Then the authorities execute sentence and that ends it. It's the method we ought to adopt here. Justice Taft said.

ALTHOUGH recalled by the recent hanging in England of Norman Thorne, convicted of killing his sweetheart, Elsie Cameron. The evidence was so purely circumstantial that even the prosecution admitted it was impossible to prove guilt beyond a shadow of doubt. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle led a strong effort to save the condemned man, on the ground that he was being railroaded. He was hanged nevertheless.

GOOD work," is the comment heard in Washington judicial circles. In fact, the impression is so favorable that a meeting of legal lights is being planned here for the coming summer to consider changes in the federal law which will make convictions easier to get. The movement's backers have the English model in mind. If they can get it through Congress, they hope

Now, on the strength of several years of my own observation of "English justice" as a correspondent in London, I want to say that it doesn't seem to me to be all it's cracked up to be. It works fast and smoothly, but at the expense of a lot of snap judgments. I wouldn't like it if I were on trial on a criminal charge. And, in this day and generation, anybody is liable to be.

A NOTABLE case, in my time in London, was that of Stinie Morrison. There had been several murders in the White Chapel district and no arrests. The police were beginning to be criticized. Then there was another murder. Somebody simply had to be caught. The police brought in Morrison. He had a prison record. On that ground, the judge set him down as guilty. But right in the middle of the trial one of the constables—it was all police evidence—broke down and confessed the whole thing was a frameup. When he broke down, more broke down. The case collapsed. The prosecution threw up its hands. Well, the jury convicted Morrison. The judge sentenced him to death. Even for England, that was too much. There was a howl. Very reluctantly the government commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. Morrison's doing time yet, I suppose, for a crime there absolutely is no reason to think he had a thing to do with it.

THREE English get convictions, yes—because they're not too particular whom they convict. It may be true, in this country, that a man actually guilty of some crime finds escape too easy for the public's good. But in England, once accused of a capital offense, he'd better make his peace with his Maker, whether guilty or not. Personally I prefer the American system. I may be charged with something some time myself.

Wills-Weinert Bad Match

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, May 6—Smart boxing critics believe that Harry Wills made a very bad match when he signed to fight Charley Weinert, the Newark veteran at the Polo Grounds on June 19.

Considering that he is to get $60,000, it was a good business move to pick up what may be some easy change, but he might lose more than that amount in prestige and future business.

If Wills is the great fighter that he would have himself believed to be, he will have no trouble with Weinert, but there will be very little credit in it for him. If he should happen to stop Weinert with a punch, he will hear that any second-class fighter should be able to beat Weinert. If Weinert should happen to go the limit—and it is quite possible that he might go the distance—it will practically ruin Wills for any big matches.

The Negro made the same kind of a bad match with Bartley Madden last summer and his poor showing practically spoiled all the chance he had to get a match with Jack Dempsey.

PROBLEM OF RIGHT GOWN FOR JUNE BRIDE SOLVED BY FASHION EXPERT

By HEDDA HOYT
(Fashion Editor of United Press)

New York, N. Y., May 6—The most important gown in a woman's life is her wedding gown! Gowns may come and gowns may go but the image of the wedding gown remains forever! That is why most brides would rather have a beautiful wedding outfit than have a chest full of duds for days of the honeymoon. No man ever remembers the color of his wife's traveling clothes, but he remembers the bridal gown and his mental image of his bride in that gown lessens many of the matrimonial bumps which he encounters after the ceremony.

Fashions in wedding gowns are changing. Girls no longer choose the proverbial correct thing, but the becoming thing. Veils, for instance, may be neglected entirely and a bandana of orange blossoms used as a substitute. Slippers may be sliver rather than white. Even the gown itself may be a very light orchid or shell pink. Trains may fall from a knot of orange blossoms at the left shoulder being merely narrow panels.

There are at least three types of brides. One must choose the type which they wish to represent. Firstly, there is the demure and rather old-fashioned bride. She may wear the lace gown used by her great-grandmother if she wishes. Or, wishing a new gown that has quaintness, she might choose the simple white satin gown with slender lines and long sleeves which come down well over her hand. She can permit her headdress to add a quaint effect. Nothing could be sweeter than the new veil and headdress which Paris is featuring. The maline veil is worn over the head like a little cap and worn on this is a tiara of tulle trimmed in tiny orange blossoms. A real lace bib is joined at the sides of the tiara at the point of the ear and this bib half covers the chin and extends in square yoke effect over the gown. One looks very Madonna-like in such an arrangement.

Then there is the girlish bride with the fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. These youthful bridal gowns may be sleeveless and with lace-trimmed berths crossing in Puritan effect over the slender bodice. White taffeta is a favored material for such a gown and the skirt may be scalloped about the hem-line displaying a slender underslip of shirred narrow lace which matches the lace used on the fichu or bertha. A headband of pearl-embroidered lace may have the maline veil attachment in the rear. If the skirt of the gown is extremely short, as it is in some cases, the veil may be full and ample and extend to the floor.

Other youthful modes made with slender bodices have the entire skirt made of tiny ruffles of silk lace trimmed in orange blossoms. Another lovely wedding gown is made of georgette embroidered in pearls at the neckline, wide sleeve borders and about the bottom of the skirt. The bodice is of normal waist length and the skirt shirs equally about the waistline, being embroidered from hemline to the knees in small pearls. The sleeves are flowered and bell-shaped and embroidered in pearls. This is a youthful wedding gown.

The mature girl usually prefers a slender wedding gown. Often she prefers one suggesting the outline of the figure. Crepe romaine or satin are good materials for her. There is a sleeveless model in long, slender lines made of satin which is trimmed at the sides with panels of lace which are attached by pearl embroidered lace motifs. The chiffon train which falls in panel effect from the rear shoulder line has a deep border of white satin set onto the chiffon by a wide band of lace.

The gown that is draped in front at a low line is pretty on the mature figure. Sometimes a beautiful jeweled medallion catches the skirt up in front giving a harem effect. When one has lovely shoulders the off-the-shoulder neckline with just a suggestion of a wee, puffed sleeve if often very effective. Almost any frock may utilize this neckline providing its lines are not absolute sheath-like.

When the bride's gown is straight-lined, it is better to have the gowns of the bridesmaids bouffant in effect thereby giving a contrast. One of the prettiest gowns of this bouffant type is the petal gown which has fitted bodice and a skirt of petal-shaped ruffles. This gown is effective with a wide-brimmed horsehair hat, trimmed in flowers or wide satin ribbon. For a rainbow wedding each bridesmaid may wear such a gown in different pastel shades of batiste with wide-brimmed hats of self-shading.

The bride's lingerie should always be white. This holds true even when the wedding gown itself is of pale pastel shade. Slippers should be white satin or silver brocade and hose sheer white in each case.

Walter Chatterton, father of the girl, had phoned to the sheriff's office when the deserter sought refuge on the Chatterton farm at Granville.

Later Woodward decided to hide in the hills. "I'm going to live where nobody will find me. And if I can find a woman I'll take her along," he told Chatterton.

Wash, and it was not long till I was relieved. Now I do all my own work and help others. I sure praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines to any one I meet that is suffering from similar troubles. I think if mothers with girls would give it to them when they come to womanhood it would make them stronger. People who have known me all my life are astonished to see me now as I was always sickly when in my teens until I started taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MARY R. Bridport, Vermont.—"In the first place I wanted a baby, but none seemed to come to me. I just love children and my husband is away all day, so I was not happy at all. A doctor told me I could not have a baby until I went to a hospital. But my sisters said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you will be O.K.' I was nervous, had organic weakness, with backache, sideache, headache and no strength. I had been in bed nearly a week when I began taking the Vegetable Compound. It was all that ever helped me and I just wish you could see my beautiful baby girl. I am fine now, and so is she. I am still taking the medicine as it keeps me well. You may be sure I am recommending the Vegetable Compound and always will."—Mrs. A. W. Howe, Bridport, Vermont.

Bebout Defeats Stevens For Mayor
on Republican Ticket—Three Present Councilmen Lose

A normal primary vote was cast in the Rushville city election Tuesday to nominate the republican and democratic tickets for the fall elections, despite the fact that a check on the ballots cast Tuesday afternoon indicated that the vote was light.

Clata L. Bebout had little difficulty in defeating Albert C. Stevens for the republican nomination for mayor and Mayor Walter R. Thomas won the democratic nomination over George W. Higgins by a safe majority.

Three members of the present council—Homer W. Cole and Chase P. Mauzy, councilmen-at-large, and Frank Abercrombie, councilman from the first ward, and all republicans, were defeated for renomination.

Only one member of the present council, Norman Crum, democrat, was renominated. He won out over two opponents in the third ward with a plurality of 130. Walter F. Easley, the fifth member of the council, was not a candidate for renomination.

Charles R. Berry was victorious in the four-cornered race for the republican nomination for city clerk, defeating his nearest opponent, Louis C. Hiner, by a plurality of 115. Dale Fisher ran 306 behind the leader and Lenard Pate was a poor fourth, running 50 votes behind Fisher.

The closest race was between Harry B. Armstrong and Alva E. Newhouse for the republican nomination for treasurer, the latter winning with a majority of 51.

William E. Harton led the six candidates for councilman-at-large on the republican ticket, having a plurality of 51 over the third high candidate, Mauzy. John S. Davis was the other candidate nominated, his plurality over Mauzy being 28.

William M. Redman won a three-cornered councilmanic battle for the right to be on the republican ballot in the third ward, defeating Russell Price, who was second, and William H. Varley.

Ellsbury Pea had no opposition in the second ward race on the republican ticket and on the democratic ticket, Fred G. Arbuckle lost to Walter E. Clarkson by one vote.

Willard H. Amos overcame two opponents in the republican race in the first ward, winning a plurality of 61.

Fred Brown defeated J. Kennard Allen in the democratic race for clerk by a majority of 146, carrying

RUM SHIPS BESEIGED FROM AIR, LAND AND SEA

Face Starvation or Surrender as Dry Flotilla and Seaplanes Wage Warfare

TO CUT OFF FOOD AND WATER

Clifton, New York, May 6—Beseiged from air, land and sea, rum row today faced starvation or surrender, as the dry flotilla and a squadron of seaplanes waged a warfare to cut off food and water supply of the liquor laden ships.

While the prohibition navy was maneuvering into fifty miles of blockade, twelve more government ships were sailing for liquor lane, twenty picket boats began patrolling the Jersey coast and auto patrols sent to coast guard stations all along the Atlantic sea board.

Meanwhile word was received from Boston that twenty-five coast guard craft under sealed orders from Washington had sailed to assist the New York and New Jersey fleets. Coast guard officials said the government planned similar operations against rum runners in the Great Lakes.

DUVALL LOOKS TO BE G. O. P. CHOICE

With All But Four Precincts in, His Nomination for Mayor in Indianapolis Was Assured

MYERS DEMOCRATIC CHOICE

Duvall Wins Out Over Powerful Shank Political Machine—Results Elsewhere in State

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., May 6—with all but four of the 225 Indianapolis precincts unofficially reported to the Times this afternoon, it appeared that John L. Duvall was elected republican nominee for mayor by at least 7,000 votes. Walter Myers, the democratic nominee, was nominated by almost three to one plurality over his opponent.

Duvall won out over the powerful political machine of Mayor Lew Shank, and the anti klan element, which threw their support to Lemke.

Klan endorsed candidates were nominated on both republican and democratic tickets at Franklin while at Kokomo Silcott Spurgeon, favored by the Klan, wrested control of the republican organization from Mayor James Burn and won the mayoralty nomination by 800 votes.

At Washington and several of the smaller cities where the klan fight was injected in the primaries the recognized klan candidates were victorious.

In two cities, Terre Haute and Shelbyville, the klan favorites were defeated.

South Bend, Ind., May 6—Defeat of the Ku Klux Klan and repudiation of the administration of Mayor Seehirt were the outstanding results today from the municipal election.

Judge Chester Montgomery, Democrat, rode rough shod over Harvey Rostizer, klan candidate for the nomination for mayor.

Sam Lepier won the G. O. P. nomination over Lewis Hammond, choice of Mayor Seehirt. Chester Crumpacker, klan candidate, ran a poor third.

Crawfordsville, Ind., May 6—with one exception anti-klan candidates were unsuccessful in Crawfordsville's primaries. Henry Meister, a councilman at large, for Republicans, was the only recognized klan candidate to win.

Humont Kennedy won the Republican nomination and Earl Berry won the Democratic nomination.

Anderson, Ind., May 6—Dr. Francis Williams defeated Clarence Stanley and six other candidates for the Republican nomination for mayor. J. J. Netterville won the Democratic nomination.

Marion, Ind., May 6—Mayor George Daniels, Republican, was renominated over I. W. Kennett by a vote of more than two to one and James McConnell won the Democratic nomination in Tuesday's primaries.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 6—the Ku Klux Klan stood defeated today as politicians reviewed the city primary of yesterday in which Mayor Cra Davis, running for re-nomination, continued on Page Three.

FUNDAMENTALS OF FAITH TO BE STUDIED

Presbyterian Church Has Never Hesitated to Rise to Their Defense, Pastor Asserts

TO BEGIN SERIES OF STUDIES

Beginning Thursday night, the Rev. Gibson Wilson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will resume his studies of the belief and teachings of the Presbyterian church.

This will include a study of the "Brief Statement of the Reformed Faith" in sixteen articles. The first study will be concerning the statement of God, of Revelation and of the Eternal purpose.

Other studies will take up the teaching concerning the birth of Jesus, the miracles, the resurrection and the inspiration of the Scriptures.

"In these days of controversy throughout the entire Christian world new interest attaches to these subjects. We believe that people have the right to think for themselves but that they must be guided in their thinking by the teaching of God's word," the pastor says.

The Presbyterian church has never hesitated to rise to the defense when the fundamentals of the Christian faith are attacked and will not stand by in these days of controversy and see them taken away our divine Lord and give us only a human Christ."

All persons who are interested in this series of studies are most cordially welcomed to attend, beginning Thursday night at 7:30.

REPORT ADVISES CONCRETE DRAIN

normal times, and also in storm flood periods.

He also went into detail on the matter of drainage, and took in the large water shed, or territory affected by the drain. In order to take care of the problem of an adequate outlet for the branch, the engineer in his report recommends that the lower part, south of State highway 39, be cleaned and dredged.

He states that it will take a circular drain 8 feet, 9 inches in diameter to carry a flood flow, or 10 feet 6 inches to carry away an excessive flood flow. He states that a circular sewer would not be desirable because of the depth of the cut in which to lay it and the necessary deepening of the entire stream from state road 39 to Flatrock, and for this reason a flattened section will be necessary, the report shows.

He recommends a section 4 feet by 16 in the clear, or a double section, each conduit being 9 feet wide and four feet deep. In order to carry an excessive flow, the size is recommended to be 23 feet wide and 4 feet deep, or if built in two conduits they should be each 13 feet wide and 4 feet deep.

Street culverts are not large enough to carry the water, according to the report. The culvert at the L. E. & W. railroad is not in the shape necessary for any proposed improvement the city may make, the report shows.

The concrete culvert through the Big Four embankment has only 42 square feet of water way. The report says it was not given the proper skew when built, and therefore interrupts the direct flow of water and in this manner loses part of its efficiency.

Concerning the C. I. & W. bridge just west of Spencer street, the report says that the bridge is exceedingly inefficient because the two streams meet from opposite directions immediately before the entrance to the culvert and each acts as a dam to the effective discharge of water from the other. It was suggested that the course of the drain be changed before it reaches this bridge, and a new bridge constructed about 400 feet west of Spencer street, so that the trouble of the two ditches meeting at the bridge can be eliminated.

From the point south of the C. I. & W. railroad the ditch should be cleaned to the river, the report says, and in this manner the surplus of water that can be emptied from the enclosure will be taken care of, and relief from overflow will be possible.

tion on the Republican ticket piled up a plurality of 1395 over George N. Correll, avowed Klan candidate in the complete official count.

On the Democratic ticket Fred A. Armstrong, without the Klan endorsement beat Harvey Jones, said to have the Klan endorsement, by 167 votes. Armstrong is a former sheriff of Vigo county and Jones a former chief of police. The vote was fairly heavy.

A cast composed of the biggest names of the screen interpret the various roles. Claire Windsor is delightful as "Nellie." She has never appeared more beautiful than when arrayed in the gorgeous creations which she wears in this picture. Lew Cody, Mae Busch, Hobart Bosworth, Raymond Griffith and Edmund Lowe do exceptional work. Lilyan Tashman, ex-Follies beauty makes her screen debut in this picture, and shows great promise.

The story is essentially a melodrama. One whirling sequence moves into another, with lightning rapidity. The elevated tracks of New York are employed to provide thrills for one sequence. The fire scene in the modiste shop holds one breathless. A more realistic fire scene is hardly obtainable. Nellie is kidnapped from her home. She is forced to work and save for her sick father, who in reality is an old suitor of her mother's. When she reaches womanhood she has to seek work in a modiste shop. Her troubles multiply rapidly, providing plenty of excitement for any screen audience.

Although the vote was light, it was 200 greater than the city primary four years ago. The combined vote cast for mayor yesterday was 1760 and four years ago the candidates for mayor on both tickets received 1543.

Compared with the total vote in the city, however, the primary voting was about three-fifths of normal. In the last city election, in the fall of 1921, there were 2754 votes cast for the republican and democratic candidates for mayor.

Bebout carried every precinct except one, the fifth, which he lost to Stevens by seven votes. In some precincts he polled more than two to one for Stevens, and in the second had almost five times as many.

Thomas carried every precinct in the city over Higgins. Hiner carried two precincts and Berry four in the republican clerk's race.

Conway had no opposition for the Democratic nomination for treasurer and Frank P. Mullins and Harry A. Kramer were unopposed in the race for the democratic nomination for councilmen-at-large. Russell L. Baringer also won the first ward nomination on the democratic ticket without opposition.

Mrs. Ritter defeated Jacob Maddox by 271 votes for the Republican mayoralty nomination in Tuesday's primaries. W. H. McDermitt, the other Republican candidate, received only a handful of votes.

Mrs. Ritter was nominated as the Republican candidate for city clerk.

Harry Hollingshead was nominated by the Democrats for mayor.

W. H. Stevens was nominated as the Republican candidate for city clerk.

John G. Hanaman, city councilman, received 571 votes and John Sloan, present mayor running for renomination, received 570 votes.

Nomination is equivalent to election, the Republican ticket being the only one in the field.

AMUSEMENTSColleen Moore in "Sally"

All the charm that marked Ziegfeld's stage production of "Sally" is caught and enhanced in First National's screen version of the same play, with Colleen Moore in the title role.

"Sally" opened today at the Princess theatre. It is a colorful and delightful story, beautifully photographed and "staged," and the direction of Alfred E. Green is worthy of the highest praise.

Colleen Moore established herself beyond question with such successes as "Flaming Youth" and "So Big," but in "Sally" she rises to even greater heights. Her role of the forlorn little drudge in the orphanage, who through sheer force of her own character rises to the fame of a great dancer, affords the star wide opportunities for the exercise of her talents. Miss Moore has long shown a decided penchant for hoydenish comedy, and this she indulges in to the fullest. She also takes advantage of those moments of poignant pathos which are provided her and likewise reveals an ability to "get her teeth into" a bit of real drama when the plot tosses it her way.

Claire Windsor at Castle

"Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," the famous Owen Davis melodrama which was so popular a few years ago on the stage has been reproduced on the screen by Emmett Flynn for the Goldwyn studios, and received its local premiere at the Castle theatre today.

A cast composed of the biggest names of the screen interpret the various roles. Claire Windsor is delightful as "Nellie." She has never appeared more beautiful than when arrayed in the gorgeous creations which she wears in this picture. Lew Cody, Mae Busch, Hobart Bosworth, Raymond Griffith and Edmund Lowe do exceptional work. Lilyan Tashman, ex-Follies beauty makes her screen debut in this picture, and shows great promise.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Bible Thought quoted in all news and advertising columns.

Great Things—Fear the Lord, and serve him in truth; for consider how great things he hath done for you. 1 Samuel 12:24.

Prayer—O, Lord, Thou are good, and we are grateful. We had taintless unless we had believed to see Thy goodness in the land of the living.

The 1925 Casualty List

The Casualty List goes on. The World War ended November 11, 1918 for most of us. Since that date America has not seized its morning newspaper to read in haste, and in fear, that list of those "Dead on the Field of Honor." The poppies of six summers have covered the seas of Flanders Field and babies walk and talk and play, who were not born when the last shell burst beyond the Meuse. But the casualty list goes on.

During 1924 more than five thousand men died in the United States from disabilities directly originating in their World War service. (Those are the deaths officially recorded and certified by the government as due to war causes. There were others not so of record.)

Fifteen every day. And the others not of record."

At each sunset we know that fifteen more have gone. "Dead on the Field of Honor" as surely as those who rest under the little crosses, row on row, in Northern France. Not mercifully "killed in action," but mercilessly scarred and maimed and tortured these long years, going at last to a rest they have earned not once but a thousand times. And the widows and the orphans are here in more numbers today than yesterday, and more tomorrow than today.

In 1922 the deaths "directly attributable to service origin" were 4,556. In 1923 they fell off to 4,304. In the first half of 1924 they rose again, to 2,721 for half a year. Where is the end to be?

Five thousand children of veterans are orphaned and dependent now. By 1932 it is estimated the number will be 38,000. Several hundred of these children are in dire need, are emergency cases for whom provision, if it is to be made, must be made quickly.

It is to aid these two sufferers of the war, the disabled and the orphans, that The American Legion is now engaged in raising an endowment fund of $5,000,000. The fund, to be held in trust forever, will place on a permanent financial basis the rehabilitation work being done by the Legion.

The Legion has said publicly that while it has assured the obligation of looking after the disabled and the orphans, the responsibility for their welfare lies as much with the public as with the ex-service men. The public now has the opportunity of assuming its share by contributing to the endowment fund.

The cause is worthy and has a great appeal and the Legion should encounter no great obstacles in raising this comparatively small sum of money. The work is such as the Legion can efficiently do, and by doing it the veteran organization seems bound in the direction its founders pointed it seven years ago.

Courtesy is the cheapest commodity in the world, yet it is probably the least used.

It doesn't belong to any corporation and it isn't quoted in Wall Street. It is not regulated by any federal commission—there are no restrictions on it. The price of courtesy is not fixed because there are no "production costs."

Courtesy is as free as the air we breath, and costing nothing, many view it as a worthless asset and do not make it a part of themselves.

For many, many, years the commencement day orators have been telling us that courtesy is a factor to be reckoned with if we wish to succeed in life.

Some high school graduates have remembered this bit of timely advice and in their efforts to get ahead in the strenuous game of life, they have made it their constant aim to courteous to others.

Go through the list of your acquaintances and see how many have made courtesy pay. You will find the number lamentably small because they have been too busy with the small perplexities of life to take time for little courtesies that make the brief stay here pleasant.

Courtesy pays big dividends in what we generally term success. It likewise creates within the individual a certain sense of satisfaction in the thought that he makes friends by treating others courteously.

And it always comes back abundantly in proportion to the way it is extended to others.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO TODAY

From Daily Republican Friday, May 6, 1910

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Young went to Kokomo yesterday where they will be present today at the celebration of the one hundredth birthday anniversary of Mrs. Clara Trout, who is an aunt of Mrs. Young.

A total eclipse of the moon visible to all observers in the United States will occur on the evening of May 23.

The home of George Henley in Carthage was completely destroyed by fire last night. The blaze was discovered by a neighbor about nine o'clock and soon gained such headway that it was impossible to save the structure.

Frank Meyers of Port Arthur, Texas, who left Rushville in 1880, is visiting old friends here. Mr. Meyers was employed by Theo. Abercrombie as a tailor prior to 1880 and was quite popular in the younger set at that time.

Hugh Dickey, southeast of town was married Wednesday to a lady in Grant county. They will be home Thursday evening where a reception will be given them at his father's home. (Falmouth.)

John Nipp, Jr., and Eugene Kemmer believe in improvements as they have each given their homes a new coat of paint. (Plum Creek.)

Messrs. Ryce Bishop and Homer Hall and Misses Mary Gray and Cora Parrish were guests of Donald and Opal Kiser. (Union Township.)

Miss Rema Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Stone will entertain a number of visiting guests with a week-end house party at her home in North Harrison street, beginning this evening. All of her guests are friends and classmates whom she knew while a student in Earlham College.

Wills-Weinert Bad Match
By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, May 6.—Smart boxing critics believe that Harry Wills made a very bad match when he signed to fight Charley Weinert, the Newark veteran at the Polo Grounds on June 19.

Considering that he is to get $60,000, it was a good business move to pick up what may be some easy change, but he might lose more than that amount in prestige and future business.

If Wills is the great fighter that he would have himself believed to be, he will have no trouble with Weinert, but there will be very little credit in it for him. If he should happen to stop Weinert with a punch, he will hear that any second-class fighter should be able to beat Weinert. If Weinert should happen to go the limit—and it is quite possible that he might go the distance—it will practically ruin Wills for any big matches.

The Negro made the same kind of a bad match with Bartley Madden last summer and his poor showing practically spoiled all the chance he had to get a match with Jack Dempsey.

PROBLEM OF RIGHT GOWN FOR JUNE BRIDE SOLVED BY FASHION EXPERT

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, N. Y., May 6—The most important gown in a woman's life is her wedding gown! Gowns may come and go but the image of the wedding gown remains forever! That is why most brides would rather have a beautiful wedding outfit than have a chest full of duds for days of the honeymoon. No man ever remembers the color of his wife's traveling clothes, but he remembers the bridal gown and his mental image of his bride in that gown lessens many of the matrimonial bumps which he encounters after the ceremony.

Fashions in wedding gowns are changing. Girls no longer choose the proverbial correct thing, but the becoming thing. Veils, for instance, may be neglected entirely and a bandana of orange blossoms used as a substitute. Slippers may be silver rather than white. Even the gown itself may be a very light orchid or shell pink. Trains may fall from a knot of orange blossoms at the left shoulder being merely narrow panels.

There are at least three types of brides. One must choose the type which they wish to represent. Firstly, there is the demure and rather old-fashioned bride. She may wear the lace gown used by her great-grandmother if she wishes. Or, wishing a new gown that has quaintness, she might choose the simple white satin gown with slender lines and long sleeves which come down well over her hand. She can permit her headdress to add a quaint effect. Nothing could be sweeter than the new veil and headdress which Paris is featuring. The maline veil is worn over the head like a little cap and worn on this is a tiara of tulle trimmed in tiny orange blossoms. A real lace bib is joined at the sides of the tiara at the point of the ear and this bib half covers the chin and extends in square yoke effect over the gown. One looks very Madonna-like in such an arrangement.

Then there is the girlish bride with the fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. These youthful bridal gowns may be sleeveless and with lace-trimmed berths crossing in Puritan effect over the slender bodice. White taffeta is a favored material for such a gown and the skirt may be scalloped about the hem-line displaying a slender underslip of shirred narrow lace which matches the lace used for the fichu or bertha. A headband of pearl-embroidered lace may have the maline veil attached in the rear. If the skirt of the gown is extremely short, as it is in some cases, the veil may be full and ample and extend to the floor.

Other youthful modes made with slender bodices have the entire skirt made of tiny ruffles of silk lace trimmed in orange blossoms. Another lovely wedding gown is made of georgette embroidered in pearls at the neckline, wide sleeve borders and about the bottom of the skirt. The bodice is of normal waist length and the skirt shirs equally about the waistline, being embroidered from hemline to the knees in small pearls. The sleeves are flowered and bell-shaped and embroidered in pearls. This is a youthful wedding gown.

The mature girl usually prefers a slender wedding gown. Often she prefers one suggesting the outline of the figure. Crepe romaine or satin are good materials for her. There is a sleeveless model in long, slender lines made of satin which is trimmed at the sides with panels of lace which are attached by pearl-embroidered lace motifs. The chiffon train which falls in panel effect from the rear shoulder line has a deep border of white satin set onto the chiffon by a wide band of lace.

The gown that is draped in front at a low line is pretty on the mature figure. Sometimes a beautiful jeweled medallion catches the skirt up in front giving a harem effect. When one has lovely shoulders the off-the-shoulder neckline with just a suggestion of a wee, puffed sleeve often very effective. Almost any frock may utilize this neckline providing its lines are not absolute sheath-like.

When the bride's gown is straight-lined, it is better to have the gowns of the bridesmaids, bouffant in effect thereby giving a contrast. One of the prettiest gowns of this bouffant type is the petal gown which has fitted bodice and a skirt of petal shaped ruffles. This gown is effective with a wide-brimmed horsehair hat, trimmed in flowers or wide satin ribbon. For a rainbow wedding each bridesmaid may wear such a gown in different pastel shades of batiste with wide-brimmed hats of self-shading.

The bride's lingerie should always be white. This holds true even when the wedding gown itself is of pale pastel shade. Slippers should be white satin or silver brocade and hose sheer white in each case.

A HOME WITHOUT CHILDREN

Lacks the Greatest Joys of Life

Many Wives are Childless Because of Ill Health. Read How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Mrs. Benedict

Wash, and it was not long till I was relieved. Now I do all my own work and help others. I sure praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines to any one I meet that is suffering from similar troubles. I think if mothers with girls would give it to them when they come to womanhood it would make them stronger. People who have known me all my life are astonished to see me now as I was always sickly when in my teens until I started taking the Vegetable Compound." —Mrs. MARY E. BENEDICT, 313 Payson Street, Kewanee, Ill.

Has a Beautiful Baby Girl Now

Bridport, Vermont.—"In the first place I wanted a baby, but none seemed to come to me. I just love children and my husband is away all day, so I was not happy at all. A doctor told me I could not have a baby until I went to a hospital. But my sisters said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you will be O.K.' I was nervous, had organic weakness, with headache, noseache, headache and no strength. I had been taking the Vegetable Compound. It was all that ever helped me and I just wish you could see my beautiful baby girl. I am fine now, and so she. I am still taking the medicine as it keeps me well. You may be sure I am recommending the Vegetable Compound and always will." —Mrs. A. W. Howe, Bridport, Vermont.
